

Founded in 2015, Remake is a 501(c)3 nonprofit on a mission to create a more just and accountable fashion industry that pays workers living wages and reduces environmental harm. We educate and mobilize the public to advocate for equitable reform and systems change to improve the lives of millions of garment makers.

Board Members include Jamie Allison, Lynda Grose, Mark Anner, Gina Bibby, Seema Shah and Joseph Oh. Our Leadership Circle includes Susie Buell, Natasha Dolby, Andrea Steele, Molly Gochman, Amber Valletta, Nat Kelley, Ali Pincus and Steph Stephenson.

Major Donors include the Martini Education & Opportunity Trust, The Dolby Foundation, The Susie T. Buell Foundation, FORGE Fund, Avina, The Cordes Foundation and The Pincus Family Foundation.

Our Core Team consists of 14 part-time staff, including CEO & Founder, Ayesha Barenblat, Writer & Journalist, Elizabeth Cline and 12 part-time community organizers in 8 regions globally. Through our global ambassador program, we have over 1,100 advocacy volunteers worldwide.

Hallmark Initiatives

- Created the viral #PayUp campaign which recovered $22 billion in stolen wages and contracts from major fashion brands; #PayUp is considered the most successful women-led worker rights campaign in the history of the fashion industry
- Helped pass the Garment Worker Protection Act in CA to get 45K mostly Latinx women paid $14/hr over $5/hr in LA
- Helped renew & expand the International Accord to ensure workplace safety and lives of garment workers globally
- Built 22 University & College partnerships within our education program
- Published Annual Fashion Accountability Report, scoring 60 brands on climate and human rights impact
- Launched Annual #NoNewClothes campaign to inspire consumer behavior change and save environmental resources

Priorities for the future

- Expand the Garment Worker Protection Act to NYC, Federally & Globally
- Engage 10 University & Middle School in programming partnerships
- Petition US government to appoint a Fashion Czar, a cabinet-level policy coordinator to advance a more ethical and sustainable fashion industry
