

Founded in 2015, Remake is a global advocacy organization with a mission to get the women in the clothing industry paid fairly. We lead collective action to disrupt the $3 trillion dollar clothing industry. We've built an international network of citizens, press, legislators and union leaders to connect the industry's biggest problems with viable solutions.

Board Members include Jamie Allison, Lynda Grose, Mark Anner, Gina Bibby, Seema Shah and Joseph Oh. Our Leadership Circle of donors includes Susie T. Buell, Natasha Dolby, Andrea Dew Steele, Molly Gochman, Amber Valletta, Nat Kelley and Steph Stephenson.

Major Donors include the Martini Education & Opportunity Trust, The Dolby Foundation, The Susie T. Buell Foundation, FORGE Fund/Avina, The Cordes Foundation, The Laudes Foundation and The Pincus Family Foundation.

Our Core Team consists of 4 full-time staff, including CEO & Founder, Ayesha Barenblat, Writer & Journalist, Elizabeth Cline, 10 part-time staff and 18 paid community organizers in 8 regions globally. Through our global ambassador program, we have over 1,400 advocacy volunteers in 65 countries.

Our annual operating budget is $500,000.

Expense Breakdown: 30% Education, 25% Advocacy, 20% Accountability, 25% Operations

Hallmark Initiatives

- Created the viral #PayUp campaign which recovered $22 billion in stolen wages and contracts from major fashion brands; #PayUp is considered the most successful women-led worker rights campaign in the history of the fashion industry
- Helped pass the Garment Worker Protection Act in CA to get 45K mostly Latinx women paid $14/hr over $5/hr in LA
- Helped renew & expand the International Accord to ensure workplace safety of 2 million garment workers across 1,300 Bangladeshi factories
- Built 22 University & College partnerships within our education program
- Publish an annual Fashion Accountability Report, scoring 60 brands on climate and human rights impact
- Launch an Annual #NoNewClothes campaign to inspire consumer behavior change and save environmental resources

2022 Priorities (spring/summer)

- Educating and empowering the next generation of gender and climate justice advocates.
- Programming for our #NoNewClothes campaign that illustrates the intersection of climate and labor in fashion.
- Spring and summer advocacy campaigns including #VictoriasDirtySecret and federal level legislation.

100% of your donation goes towards eliminating injustices in the clothing industry.

Help us improve the pay and working conditions of the women who make our clothes by giving today.

www.remake.world Remake, 1012 Torney Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94126 EIN: 47-318 1193